Deadline Nears For 'New Wheat Farm' Allotment

Farmers who wish to be considered for a "new wheat farm" allotment for 1966 on a farm which does not have a 1965 wheat allotment should get in touch with the ASCS County Office during the next few weeks, J. Noel Weaver, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today. Such farmers have until July 1 to file applications for such an allotment.

Producers eligible to file such applications are those with a farm for which no wheat allotment has been established, who have no interest in the wheat allotment on any other farm, and where the farmer expects to receive more than 50 percent of his income from total production on the farm.

The chairman emphasized that formal application for a "new farm" wheat allotment is made by filing a written application—on a form provided for that purpose—at the ASCS County Office prior to the July 1 deadline.

by Mrs. Elmer Joiner.

Another Monday morning with the sun shining, the wind in the west, gives the farmers hopes that before many days they can start planting cotton again, this time for good. A few days of sunshine, they all plant like mad, then it rains again. Some of it may get up but the most of it will have to be planted over.

The cloud Friday night got a little scary, for a while, as the wind get high enough to twist some limbs off the mesquites. With all of the rain we have had recently, it was the highest wind, but only a half to over an inch of rain fell, in different areas.

It was rather lonesome at church Sunday, since the Jack Wright family was missing, having moved to Abilene Saturday. Mr. Wright is employed by the Texas Highway Department, in that city, they are residing on Yorktown Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rosenbaum were also missing Sunday, having gone to Post, where they will meet his sister, at the home of his brother, Ambrose Rosenbaum. They have not seen the sister in eight years, did not get the

Mrs. H. L. Ford, Penny,

Diane and Nancy, went to Denton last week to take Nancy to that city where she will go to school, starting last week. Nancy was an honor graduate of Hamlin High, this year, winning many honors in her four years of high school.

Buck Joiner, Odessa, ate breakfast, and visited awhile Sunday morning, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Joiner. He had spent the night at the lake fishing, but as usual no luck. A sister-in-law, Mrs. Donnie Ray Holloway, came with him to drive her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Durham, back to Odessa, where they will visit with their three daughters.

Mrs. Carl Young and Mrs. Elmer Joiner went to Abilene, last Friday, where they attended a workshop on refinishing furniture, held at the Hogue's Decorating Galleries, on North 6th St. and conducted by Andy Hogue, co-owner of the business, with his brother, June Hogue. A very interesting two hours was spent with Mr. Hogue discussing color in the home, decorating hints, and showing how to refinish furniture, with a beautiful antique finish, without having to take off the old paint. Coffee and pops were served.

Mrs. H. L. Ford, Penny,

Rev. Leverett adds that "it was a wonderful privilege to be able to attend the Convention and to be a representative of God's church."

Mrs. Kenneth Leverett, Kimmy and Kristy, spent last week in Abilene, with her mother, Mrs. Tanner, while Rev. Leverett was gone to the Southern Baptist Convention in Dallas.

Mrs. Winson Gray was a visitor of Mrs. Clarice Gentry, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Elmer Joiner and Mrs. Carl Young took advantage of being in Abilene last Friday, to visit with Mrs. Lois Hampton, at the Crestview Nursing Home. Mrs. Hampton seems to be feeling good and is planning on being able to attend the Ray reunion, held at the Hodges community center, in August.

Speaking of Hodges, had occasion to go to the Hodges cemetery, last Thursday, and found it to be one of the beauty spots of our county. As it is known, it is one of the older ones of the county, therefore it is so interesting to look it over. There are so many different varieties of shade trees this year. Would be worth any ones time to go see this little place, dedicated to the loved ones that have gone on.

Mrs. Lura Lovvorn, Stamford, and her daughter, Mrs. Alton Richards, of Rule, visited Monday afternoon with Mrs. Elmer Joiner, who is a niece of Mrs. Lovvorn's.

We were happy that our pastor got to attend the Convention, in Dallas last week, June 1-4, as a messenger from the church. Rev. Leverett's report follows: The 108th session of the Southern Baptist Convention met in Dallas, June 1st through the 4th, 1965.

The secretary of the convention reported an estimated registration of messengers to be more than 15,000.

The Convention took the challenge of the Brazilian Baptist Convention when he challenged the Southern Baptist for a North and South Evangelistic Crusade by 1967, and a world wide crusade by 1975.

The Convention expressed the desire to "Rededicate ourselves in the spirit of Christ, to a ministry of reconciliation among all men", and to remind ourselves that all men

A WINDOW on the WORLD

with RURAL ELECTRICITY

Today, all Americans can sit in on the great events of our times. In addition to all the comforts and labor-saving tools of the Twentieth Century which electricity has brought to rural America, the power line has truly opened a window on the rest of the world.

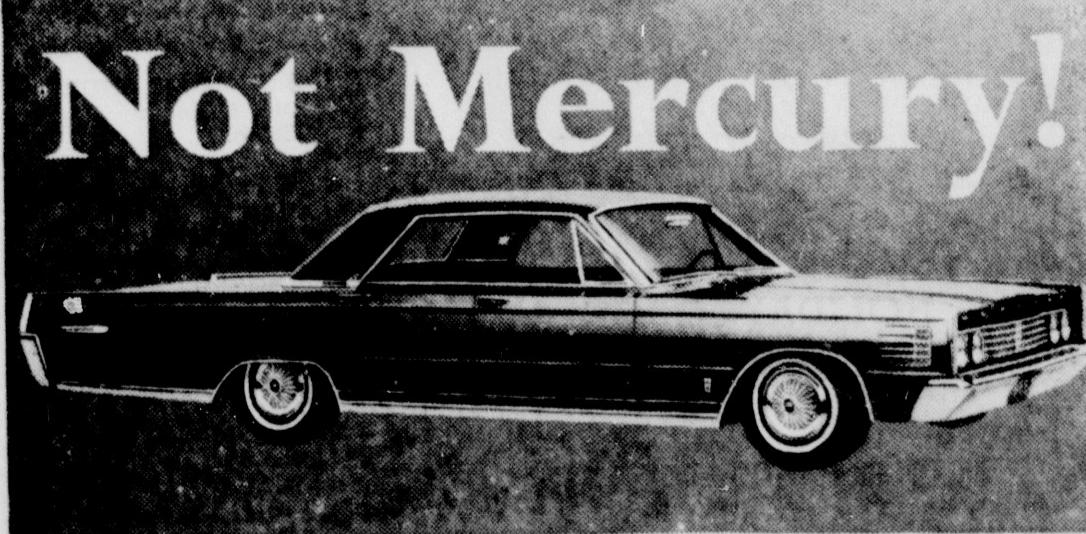

Rural electrification has made it possible for people in the most remote areas to be well-informed by radio and television. Rural people can now take an even greater part in America's social, political, and economic life, thanks to rural electrification.

We are proud of our role in helping to open this window on the world!

The basis of God's first and greatest commandment is love. God gave man the freedom to choose . . . and therefore will not force his love on anyone. God took the first step and is always ready to receive any who would come to Him. Attend church Sunday and express your love for God.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. — With the close of another session of the Legislature, permanent state capitol inhabitants turned happily to one of their favorite indoor pastimes - - speculating on the next elections.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr so far leads most of likely Democratic candidates to oppose GOP Sen. John Tower next year, although Congressman Jim Wright of Fort Worth would like to be his party's choice for the race.

Carr, in the past, has denied any real interest in going to the Senate. He has concentrated his plans on a race for governor after John Connally vacates the office. However, he declines to close the door on a Washington career at this stage.

He cannot afford to, with odds favoring Connally's remaining in office for another term - - and another term could be four more years, if the constitutional amendment passes to double the elective span of statewide officials.

If Carr runs for the Senate, apparently there will be a big field battling to succeed him in the attorney general's office. At least a half dozen state senators reportedly have their eyes on the job. Of the lot, Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio has been busiest so far.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, who makes no secret of the fact he wants to run for governor, most likely will run for reelection in 1966.

Congressional races are shaping up on the assumption the new reapportionment bill will stand up. If it does, Sen. Marlin Dies Jr. of Lufkin or Rep. Charles Wilson of Trinity likely will take on Congressman John Dowdy of Athens in District 2.

New District 23 in South Texas (from southern Bexar County to the Mexico border) has drawn interest from State Sen. Abraham Kazen of Laredo, Sen. Walter Riche of Gonzales, Rep. Glen Kothman of San Antonio and Rep. Wayne Connally of Floresville, brother of the governor.

Exempt from the property tax locally a hospital which spends as much as $1,500,000 a year on care of indigents.

Fourteen amendments on the 1966 general election ballot would:

Add $200,000,000 more to the water development fund and permit use for conveyance and associated facilities such as canals or pipelines.

Expand court of criminal appeals from three to five members;

Repeal the poll tax;

Allow the state to hold private funds until receipt of federal matching grants for private groups to use in rehabilitation services;

Relax residence requirements for voting for president and vice president;

Authorize regional airport authorities;

Abolish residence requirements for servicemen to vote;

Set swearing-in day for state representatives on first day of legislative session;

Provide state aid to survivors of firemen and law enforcement officers killed on duty;

Set up a retirement system for state employees and officials;

Remove Arlington State College from the permanent university building fund;

Permit farm land to be assessed only at its agricultural value (despite proximity to big city real estate developments);

Extend terms of conservation and reclamation district directors from two to six years;

Provide that school district boundaries can be changed without invalidating tax bond issues.

EDITORIALS

Congressional Redistricting

Accomplishments of the 59th Texas Legislature merited the praise which Governor John Connally expressed on the eve of adjournment. Few, if any, regular sessions have been more productive. Some thorny issues and problems had to be resolved. When the last vote was taken most of the urgent matters had been disposed of, but in a few cases the results caused widespread reaction. One pertained to congressional redistricting.

The new congressional map of Texas would provide an interesting exhibit for the attention of the late Elbridge Gerry, a Massachusetts governor who devised the political artifice known as gerrymandering. At least eight of the districts take in and leave out counties which raise questions for which no immediate answers may be forthcoming. In the absence of all the facts needed to evaluate this act of the Legislature, we would hesitate to pass judgment. A study of the new boundaries fixed for congressional districts suggests, however, that Texas legislators may encounter a lot more criticism than praise for what they did or failed to do in their effort at reapportionment.

Beauty Along The Delaware

Momosa trees are in full bloom along the banks of the Delaware. They provide a refreshing and satisfying contrast to the unsightly appearance of much of the area adjacent to this stream in Clarksville. Keeping rank and unwanted vegetation under control in recent weeks has been difficult. Had dry weather prevailed, however, the lack of attention would still be in evidence except at scattered points. The planting of blooming shrubs along the Delaware several years ago was a beautification project carried out under sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce. It was well supported. Many of the plants failed to survive a sever summer drought. Most of the harder momosas came through and today contribute substantially to Clarksville's civic assets during June. Strangers passing through Clarksville see the blooming trees where Main street crosses the Delaware and doubtless they are impressed by the beauty of this scene, which would be less attractive if the trees had not been planted.

Rare and Valuable

The odds are incalculably high that anyone sampling the more than 40 soil types in Red River County would not find a trace of europium or yttrium. These are classified as "rare earths." Their value has increased many times with the advent of color television. They enhance color fidelity. "Rare earths" are few in number and widely scattered. Scientists have discovered that a substance containing these unusual elements emits a much stronger red color when hit by electrons. This results in a brighter image and less distortion. Just in case anyone who reads this happens to find enough europium or yttrium to market, the current going price is around $1,000 a pound.

A Profitable Side-Line

It is not generally known that one of Red River County's outstanding farmers has a sideline operation which is practically free of competition, although the activity meets a market demand which is quite general. Along with livestock, corn and other crops, which he produces quite well, Garland Hines maintains several minnow pools from which he supplies fish bait to practically all dealers in Red River County. His minnow farming is carried on in a business-like manner, receiving the thought and attention necessary to meet the requirements of customers. Success in this, as in other activities, is not the result of merely becoming aware of an opportunity but doing something about it.

New Gas Company District Head

Hubert C. Westfall has been appointed manager of Lone Star Gas Company's Paris District of Distribution, according to S. H. King, East Texas regional manager.

Formerly district manager at Frederick, Oklahoma, Mr. Westfall replaces M. M. Williams who has been appointed Oklahoma regional manager.

Effective July 1, 1965, he will supervise natural gas distribution in Paris, Clarksville, Arthur City, Blossom, Brookston, Deport, Detroit, Petty, Powderly, Reno, Roxton, Bagwell, Bogata, and Fulbright.

Mr. Westfall has been with Lone Star Gas since 1935. He began as a laborer at Sweetwater, became a utility man at Stamford that same year and became storekeeper at Stamford in October of 1936. In May of 1941, he became plant engineer in Abilene; in July, 1943, he became district foreman at Stamford; in March, 1949, he was made district manager in Eastland; and in December, 1957, he became district manager at Frederick.

A native of Ozona, Texas, Mr. Westfall attended Ozona High School and Sul Ross College, Alpine, Texas. He has been an active member of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club and the Frederick Chamber of Commerce.

He is married to the former Glenn Compton, of Stamford, Texas, and they have a married daughter.

SC District Distributes 10,000 Fingerling Bass

By Edwin H. Hartwick
Approximately 10,000 fingerling bass with blue gills for food for them were delivered to Red River County Soil Conservation District Co-operators last Friday. Some 40 co-operators received these fish from the Federal hatchery at Fort Worth. These small fish were to be placed in pools ranging from 1/4 to 10 surface acres in size. These fingerling bass should weigh one to two pounds next spring. A few tips follow for good fishpond management.

Fertilize your pond. A properly fertilized fishpond will support 4-5 hundred pounds of fish compared to 1-1.5 hundred pounds without fertilizer. Of this amount supported, the comparison of fish produced will be about 2 hundred pounds fertilized to 15-30 pounds unfertilized. Fertilizer also helps control moss and waterweeds. It stimulates the rapid and abundant growth of tiny microscopic plants (plankton). These produce food for the small insects and worms that are in turn food for the fish. A bluegill needs 4-5 pounds of insects for a one pound gain. A bass needs 4-5 pounds of bluegills to gain one pound. Fertilize ponds with 100 pounds of 8-8-4 of 40 pounds of 20-20-5 per surface acre. Begin early in the Spring and check often by sticking hand and arm into the water. If your hand is visible at elbow depth, the pond needs additional fertilizer. The average pond needs 8-12 hundred pounds of fertilizer per surface acre per year.

Don't fish the pond the first year following stocking. Bass should be allowed to spawn before fishing begins. Check this next year with a minnow seine. If fingerling bass are present, it's time to begin fishing.

Fish the pond correctly. After the bass have successfully spawned, the pond will contain its limit of fish in pounds. No more weight can be produced unless you remove some. However, the bluegills must be considered as harvest fish from 4 ounces. A good bass production depends on a steady production of little bluegills all summer. If the ratio of bass-bluegill gets out of balance in favor of the bluegills, the bass will be harder to catch. Correct this by removing bluegills. If the ratio is out of balance the other way the bass will be stunted. Correct this by fertilizing and removing some larger bass.

How hard can you fish a pond? It is often said, "You can't overfish a pond with hook-and-line fishing." This is true in one sense but not quite true in another. Frequent fishing is good for the fish population since the remaining fish grow bigger. Heavy fishing does not permanently deplete the pond, but causes alternate periods of good and bad fishing. Extremely heavy fishing affects fishing even longer.

Stocking rates, according to J. C. Morrow, Department of the Interior, are as follows: One hundred bass and bluegills per surface acre. Fifty channel catfish per surface acre are recommended by themselves or twenty-five with other sport fish.

For those co-operators who have ordered fish that have not yet been delivered, this note was received from the hatchery.

"NOTE: Applications requesting all three species of fish-bluegill and catfish will be delivered this fall and the bass next spring. Applications requesting bass and bluegill received prior to May will be delivered this spring." For more information on fishpond management contact your Soil Conservation Service.

Each operation to be toured was selected because of its application of latest research findings in normal day to day operations, Box revealed.

"They are practical farming and ranching operations rather than show places," he added.

The tour, which is a joint effort of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, various agribusinessmen and Texas A&M University, will show successful examples of poultry, livestock, forage, floral, vegetable, fruit, dairy and field crop production. In addition, it will display the importance of research conservation and proper management.

Special emphasis will be placed upon successful application of recommendations made by A&M Tuesday afternoon and a portion of Wednesday morning will be spent on the A&M campus.

The tour will terminate in Tyler at 3:30 p.m., Thursday, Box concluded.

Foil a Valuable Aid for Campers

Tyler State Park -- Eleven year old Gary Bierig showed youthful ingenuity this week as he demonstrated new aids for campers in Tyler State Park.

A member of the Royal Ambassadors, a church youth group Gary grinned through some of the trials and tribulations of most campers as he made the routine easier. With plain aluminum foil he made his sleeping bag warm and dry with a generous sheet spread underneath. He prevented snagging the lure on his rod and reel in car upholstery by merely wrapping the lure with foil.

He lined his frying pan with foil to fry fish and bacon, then rolled up the grease and threw it away, thus saving tedious dish washing. On the grill the fish was fried by wrapping it in foil and cooking until the foil browned. His matches were made waterproof by wrapping in foil, and the same foil sealed the tops of catsup and mustard containers.

But this didn't end it. Gary carefully wrapped billfold and wrist watch in foil before he waded into the lake's shallow water to fish. He carefully unwrapped his fish hooks from ... you guessed it ... a packet of foil.

Field Training of 49th Division
Will Emphasize Combat Skills

Dallas -- Sharpening combat skills was the main objective laid down Friday, June 4, for the Texas National Guard's 49th Armored Division in its annual field training this summer at North Fort Hood. Brigadier General Luther E. Orrick,
Wichita Falls, the 49th's commanding officer, said the Lone Star outfit would be in the Central Texas armored training center from July 18 through August 1.

The veteran Guard officer, who has been with the 49th
since it was organized in 1947, explained the training will be aimed at making units better combat teams. This will be done in a series of maneuvers and test exercises under simulated combat conditions. "We will inject realism into the training wherever practicable," General Orrick said.

For example, the division will use over a quarter of a million rounds of blank ammunition in mock battles. They will shoot a like amount of shells using every weapon from the familiar M1 rifle to the heavy 8-inch howitzers on training ranges.

General Orrick said he wants the division to fulfill its own training requirements and concurrently meet the demands placed on the modern reserve forces. He encouraged his commanders at all levels to exercise their own initiative to get the best training job done.

The three combat brigades, which are headquartered at Houston, Fort Worth and Dallas, will move their tank and infantry battalions into the hilly backwoods of Fort Hood for maneuvers the first week. Division artillery units from the Wichita Falls, San Angelo, Shamrock, Paris and Marshall areas will alternate firing positions in the field over the two weeks period. Support elements will bivouac the second week.

Each member of the division can expect to spend at least four nights in the field on bivouac, General Orrick added.

The 49th will move from all corners of Texas--76 towns all total--by military convoys that will take two days to close on Fort Hood. Some will stretch
430 miles from the Lower Rio

Grand Valley while at least one unit, at Gatesville, will travel less than one mile from its armory at North Fort Hood.
A division spokesman said over 7,000 Guardsmen will take part in the training.

There will be many special features. The division's annual mounted review is scheduled July 24. A command post exercise is planned for two days to test the decision-making ability and communications of division, brigade and battalion staff members. The Fort Worth based Second Brigade will coordinate an awesome firepower demonstration on July 23 that will include every weapon and combat element of the division with tactical jet fighters. Selected members of the division will attend a two weeks school to learn new techniques in the deadly 81-mm mortars.

Mainly, the men will be learning their military skills by doing their jobs," General Orrick said. And, that job may be taking an enemy-held hill, or shoving home another round in a 90-mm tank gun, or standing guard - all tasks the 49th's Guardsmen must be ready to do.
